“ I just heard the news of your passing. My heart is literally so broken and I really do not believe this is real. You were one of those forever friends that, even if we weren't seeing eye to eye on things, we both had a lot of respect for the other person's views because the friendship was more important overall. We saw each other through some tough times in life and through some beautiful ones over the past 10 years. Though I got caught up in life over the last 6 months and we didn't talk much, I promise I never considered you any less than one of my very best life long friends. You made a permanent impression on my life and I will never forget you. Thank you for the awesome recipes, teaching me how to tie a bandana (your way), showing me Dallas and introducing me to Fuel City tacos all those years ago. Thank you for some of the best conversations and smart ass remarks that I will never forget and I promise you I will never play Fantasy Football again without thinking of you. I will miss you dearly, friend. Rest easy, Don Ron.

“ Was so shocked to hear you had passed.. I was just thinking of you the same day as the accident and a few days before. I went to your profile to see your picture of you and Hadley bigger. I know we weren't related, but us girls, as kids growing up with you and your family, thought you were always like a cousin or brother.. It's been so long since we've seen you. I was so hoping our families could get together again. We had talked about how fun our luaus were. You said my mom and dad threw the best parties. I was so stoked to hear you loved cooking, too. I was hoping we could throw down some grub together. Every time I cook something really awesome, I think of you. Say hi to my Madre for me. I love you so much, Ronnie. I'll miss seeing your UFC, food and Hadley posts..

“ I met Ron over 10 years ago at Jeff Hennan's BJJ school in Mesquite, and as in perfect Ron fashion, he bummed a ride off me that first day. We stayed friends on and off for years, and in 2013 he brought into my gym the girl that would become my wife. If not for Ron, I would have never met her, nor would we have hit it off so well, since from Ron she had learned to question any and everything. Her open mind and willingness to be inquisitive is what made us click and I have Ron to thank for that! As we all know, he could be a hell raiser but he was also one of the smartest men I had ever met. I hurt, and more importantly I hurt for all of you that loved and knew him as Aly and I did. The world is not as interesting without him!

“ Throughout the years that Roy and I were together Ron was like a brother to me. We had good times, great times and not so great times. But what remains with me are these: Fireworks, fight nights, his incredible cooking, his love for Howie, his helping us move when nobody else would help, on and on and on. My home is filled with memories of Ron and I have thought of all of them over the past few days. Any tough time that we had he would always find some way to make us laugh. Regardless of the time that has past and everything else, this news hurt me to hear. I will always cherish the memories made. My thoughts and prayers go out to the Bennett family, Hadley especially, Roy, Melissa, Zayne and Bobo Spoon as well.

“ You were always there for me. No matter what I needed, you made it happen without complaint. Whether it was someone to share a beer with or it was to move with no one else but you. You were there. Out of all the great times we had and funny moments my best memory was just you being there. I love you and will miss you every day.

“ I truly cant believe this. I was so excited to hear the news that you and Melissa FINALLY were tying the knot! You guys were both so right for each other!!! I only met you a few times but I felt like I knew you so well through talking with melissa!!! On one night that melissa was working, Ron had cooked dinner. He was preparing her lunch for her to take with her. He asked if I was working that night. Which I was. Needless to say, melissa brought my lunch with her. She always talked about how good he cooked, but man! It was delicious! He was sooo thoughtful! Thank you Ron! Watch over Melissa, shell need it!!!

I feel so lost right now and I miss you more than you could ever imagine. “ The first year I met Ron at Culinary School, he would always invite me to come over and watch the UFC fights. I finally gave in and me and my family went. Well about a hour before the fight began he said he was going to take a quick shower. I thought nothing of it. The kids and everybody were in the back yard. 10 minutes later he comes around the corner with nothing on but a towel. He slaps his hands together and said,"Let's go. Let's see what you got!" I'm laughing cause it has to be a joke. Nope! He was dead serious. He went for a tackle at my legs which I dodged. I'm laughing the whole time cause this has to be on camera or a practical joke between classmates. He wore me down and finally got me into a headlock. That was his signature move he would boast about. This man is buck naked and telling me,"I told ya I'd get ya!" We got up and he shook my hand and gave me a hug! It wasn't till years later I figured out that he was testing me but also coming to me as a man! Showing me that what it all boils down to is we are all the same. Material things and all the things people hold value to mean nothing! Color means nothing. We are both men in a cruel world. I know he can hold his own and he knows I can hold my own! He proved to me from that day that there are true friends but he became more. He became my brother! I love you Ron. I can not thank the Lord enough for allowing me to know you and for you to touch my life. Rematch one day soon.

“ You're not supposed to say men are beautiful, but Ron exemplified beautiful! His spirit, his devotion ,his ability to challenge the very way one thinks will forever be in my heart.
